It's called the Gold Coast for a reason...

Playing host to more than 13 million visitors annually, the beachcomber's paradise that is the Gold Coast is as popular as ever, and remains a favourite destination among Aussies and international visitors for sun-and-sand holidays.

Beach-goers and thrill-seekers alike are drawn to the visual splendour of the Gold Coast's endless white-sand shoreline, thriving dining scene, family-friendly theme parks, designer shopping, and of course, the surf – it's not called Surfers Paradise for nothing.

The Skypoint Observation Deck at the Q1 (soaring 230 metres above sea level) is a popular family attraction for its impressive panorama that spans from Brisbane to Byron Bay.
